So the Danger of a Single Judgment Is that You Will Actually Have a Less Accessible and Certainly Less Progressive Document than You Would Do if People Were Able To Express Their Own Points of View

What Happens in the Court of Appeal Is a Halfway House Which Is that in Most Cases There Is Only One Judgment and the Two Other Judges Will Just Say I Agree or I Also Agree and Then They Perhaps We'll

Have a Few Paragraphs and a Few Sentences but the Main Judgment Will Still Be the One Lead Judgment So the Best Skeleton Arguments Are Not the 80-Page Ones and We Don't Allow this Anyway It's the Person

Who's Actually Written It Out Rewritten It and Boiled It Down to Its Essential and Given You a Crisp and Convincing Argument and the People Who Impress You an Oral Argument or Not the People with the

Flourishes and They're Throwing around the Glass of Water and or Is There It's the People Who Get Down to It and Convince You're on a Logical Basis and What on Your Second Question What Do You Do if You

Have a Gap in the Law Well I Would Like To Just Give You One Answer Which Is Quite Separate from What Ideas You May Be Bringing in You Have Got To Find a Principled Reason for Your Decision

I Would Like To Just Give You One Answer Which Is Quite Separate from What Ideas You May Be Bringing in You Have Got To Find a Principled Reason for Your Decision and You've Got To Be Satisfied that It Stands Up It's a Great Virtue of Having To Give Reasons for Your Decision so You Move Progressively Therefore from What Has Already Been Decided and You Try and Work Forward on a

Principled Basis the Front Prefer Presentations Is a Transit British Judicial System Is Being Exported Out from Forbidden to Our Jurisdiction so We Have Ever Had the Feeling that When People Are Subjected Their

Contracts as a Relation to English Law They're Looking for some Kind of Better Justice that They Can Get in Their Jurisdiction

And I Could Talk all Night about the Strasbourg Court but Let Me Just Make Too Much the First Thing That Hit Me and It May Not Have Occurred to Anyone Here Is that When You Go There You Realize that that

Caseload Is Not Just about the United Kingdom or Even about Germany or France It Is Also about Bulgaria

Romania Russia Turkey All the 47 Countries and You Realize the One Foot Problems They've Got To Deal with and How Really How Remarkable Their Jurisprudence Is To Be Shining a Light on All these Situations I Can Also Tell You from Having Travelled to Very Distant Parts of the World Even South America But Then that Would Make It Possibly Longer and More Even More Complicated in Already Years and Involving More Jargon How Do You Think Would Be the Best Way To Solve that Well There Are Different Ways of Solving It Ii Had in Mind Just Making an Individual Judgment Clearer Not a Whole Area of Law because I Think Judges Wouldn't Have Time To Do It Anyway I Say so People Who Write the Textbooks Are Rather Better at It than the Judges but in a Judgement You Could as It Were at the Start of It Say What the Issue Is in Very Simple Terms without All this Detailed Fact and Then You Could Early On Indicate But in a Judgement You Could as It Were at the Start of It Say What the Issue Is in Very Simple Terms without All this Detailed Fact and Then You Could Early On Indicate What the Answer Was Going To Be and Why You've Got that Now a Lot of People Think that's a Bad Thing To Do because It Suggests to the Litigants It You've Made Up Your Mind before You Write the Reasons I Think that'S-because if You've Actually Been Able To Formulate Your Reasons You Have in Fact Thought the Case All the Way through and We Will Have Rewritten those Reasons Many Times and Then if You Do that at the Start and You Repeat It at the End and You Also Have a Little Roadmap We've Talked about Earlier I Think It Would Be Far Easier To Get Your Way through Cases

And Then if You Do that at the Start and You Repeat It at the End and You Also Have a Little Roadmap We've Talked about Earlier I Think It Would Be Far Easier To Get Your Way through Cases I Would Make Much Shorter Too Yes Hi Two Questions Two Brief Questions Are There Particular Scholars in the Field of Statutory Interpretation Who You Find Particularly Influential and Do You Think Would Be Useful for Law Students in General To Have a Standalone Course in that Field Well You've Obviously Predicted What My Answer Was Going To Be on the Second One Yes of Course on Legislative Studies
